

CROWD EXCESS AGENT

Attention outruns evidence. Risk decides.

ALPACA PAPER OPTIONS

Markets can be loud. Evidence can be quiet.

The opportunity is the unexplained gap—not raw sentiment.

ATTENTION

CROWD EXCESS

EVIDENCE

explains—or fails to

The agent trades only when attention + price outrun objective news and every deterministic gate passes.

Three sources. Three distinct jobs.

Search attention is a proxy—not community sentiment.

The trade is the residual—not the headline.

$$\text{CROWD EXCESS} = \text{SIGNED MOVE} \times \text{ATTENTION}$$

– NEWS DIRECTION × MATERIALITY × CONFIDENCE

POSITIVE

Upside enthusiasm looks excessive → bearish reversal candidate

NEGATIVE

Downside pessimism looks excessive → bullish reversal candidate

The model explains evidence. Deterministic code decides eligibility.

The unexplained reaction is the product.

Positive residual: excessive upside enthusiasm

Negative residual: excessive downside pessimism

Trade direction is contrarian.

STRUCTURED EVIDENCE

The modest market-adjusted decline is directionally consistent with Apple-specific leadership-transition uncertainty: multiple same-day reports state that Tim Cook is departing as CEO and handing the role to John Ternus, while another senior Apple executive is stepping back from App Store and product-event responsibilities. These developments can reasonably create near-term uncertainty around an i
